The Second Goetheanum An Impulse from the Christmas Conference

As we approach the centenary celebrations of the Christmas Conference of 1923/24, the Anthroposophical Society in Switzerland will hold a conference each year on a major theme of the Christmas Conference. In 2018 we turn to the Second Goetheanum Building. Rudolf Steiner already presented the first ideas and impulses during the Christmas Conference. He was concerned with the second Goetheanum right up to the end, even on his sick-bed.

Experiencing the Goetheanum, will be a central theme. On Saturday over six sessions, we will meet the Second Goetheanum in groups with knowledgeable tour guides.

Following an overview from Egypt to the Second Goetheanum, we will reflect on the connection between the Second Goetheanum and Michael, and the relationship of the large auditorium and the Representative of Man. On Saturday evening, we pay our respects to Assja Turgenyev, as one of many artistic helpers. We close our theme on Sunday morning with a perspective on the building together with the Society and the School of Spiritual Science.

Eurythmy contributions include the Foundation Stone Meditation to open, echoed by the Rhythms on Saturday evening. The finale of the conference will be a eurythmy performance that aims to give an impression of what may be art in a mystery school.
